

Unwired Web Solutions launches official Web Design and Web Optimization Site

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Cambridge Ontario, October 5, 2009

Unwired Web Solutions (UWS), Canada's most innovative web development agency, has officially launched its new website geared towards helping clients and potential clients determine their needs and directing them to the UWS representative in their area. The new site at www.unwiredwebsolutions.com also fills a gap by creating a nationwide portal for field representatives to service the needs of B2B & B2C clients from the east to the west coast of Canada.

Having collectively grown successful companies in Ontario and the United States working within both corporate and entrepreneurial organizations, the partners have taken that experience and knowledge to build UWS into the progressive client facing firm it is today.

"Our goal from the start is to build a brand & suite of online products that our web development agents across the country can use to build websites that drive qualified, relevant traffic that converts leads into sales or awareness for our clients" said Dwight Brown, VP of Business Development for UWS.

Mr. Brown goes on to say that, "Our expertise comes from developing and growing our own companies or working within the structure of some of Canada's fastest growing IT companies. Collectively we've been involved in powerhouse organizations like Research In Motion, Telus (growing clearNET), Yellow Pages, Rogers Wireless as well as educational institutions throughout Ontario."

The partners have had their own web based companies and have direct experience in sales, training, developing products, accounting and consulting.

About Unwired Web Solutions (UWS):

Unwired Web Solutions (UWS) (www.unwiredwebsolutions.com), Canada's fastest growing web development agency, was formed to fill a gap in the marketplace by creating a nationwide agency that services the web design and optimization needs of small and mid size clients with representation in their local area.

With award winning partners, superior web design tools and focused agents across the county, UWS has produced winning results for clients countrywide.
